Project Engineer Automotive (m/w/d) - München

ICH FREUE MICH AUF IHRE BEWERBUNG!

Marc Ehlerding, karriere@pixida.de oder bewerben Sie sich online auf www.pixida.jobs.

Are you fascinated by Navigation, e-Mobility, Infotainment, Telematics, Connected Services, Augmented Reality and would like to further support these areas as a Project Engineer? In addition, have you initial professional experience in one of these topics regarding the automotive sector? Then you've to come to the right place in our team!

YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES

› You define and specify requirements for the development of Navigation, e-Mobility, Infotainment, Telematics, Connected Services or Augmented Reality functions
› You analyze failed test cases, investigating the root cause, and discussing solutions with the development team
› You execute buildups and further development of central test processes and methods
› You create test specifications, test cases and plan and in some cases execute tests
› You manage test concepts and present them to test managers, product owners, and developers
› You plan the rollout according to project milestones

OUR REQUIREMENTS

› You possess a completed technical degree in electrical engineering, information technology, computer science or comparable education with corresponding experience
› You have ideally already gained initial experience with location-based services or connected products
› You have routine in creating technical requirements and basics of project management
› You are an analytical thinker with the willingness to work in an agile environment
› You are fluent in English, German will be considered as a Plus › European driving license is a Plus

We have an interesting package of benefits., see here:
https://www.kununu.com/de/pixida3